

It's frightening, but your choice at the grocery store can lead to biodiverse rainforests or fire-torn wastelands.

Rainforests are burned down to make room for palm oil plantations, destroying the only remaining habitat of the critically endangered orangutan and thousands of other innocent species. When you buy Halloween candy, avoid palm oil and its derivatives, which almost always contain the letters "palm," "olei," or "stear".

What's more, palm oil production has been tied to human rights abuses and palm oil consumption is actually bad for your heart!
